Nassau County Executive Laura Curran and Legislator Ellen Birnbaum Visit GNWPCD

The Great Neck Water Pollution Control District recently welcomed Nassau County Executive Laura Curran and Legislator Ellen Birnbaum to tour its wastewater treatment center and learn more about the current infrastructure projects underway at the District. County Executive Curran and Legislator Birnbaum were provided a deeper insight into the updates to the District's three anaerobic digesters, construction of a grease receiving station and addition of a third microturbine.

The visit showcased the District's state-of-the-art technology and its unyielding commitment to protect the environment while sustaining its economic viability and social responsibility. Commissioner Jerry Landsberg, Commissioner Steve Reiter, Commissioner Patty Katz and Superintendent Christopher Murphy also discussed the District's continued plans to invest in sustainable technology and partnering with the community to preserve the local waterways for future generations.

About the GNWPCD

The Great Neck Water Pollution Control District (GNWPCD) is a commissioner-run Special Improvement District within the Town of North Hempstead. The GNWPCD has provided sewage services for the Great Neck area since 1914, and currently serves more than 25,000 residents and businesses in the villages of Great Neck, Saddle Rock, Kensington, and those parts of Thomaston and Great Neck Plaza east of Middle Neck Road; as well as all unincorporated areas north of the Long Island Rail Road and a part of Manhasset. The GNWPCD's mission is to protect our bay, the environment and the health of our society.
