Great Neck Water Pollution Control District Commissioner
Steve Reiter Reelected to District Board

Reiter Hopes Fourth Term Brings Further Success to District

Great Neck, N.Y. (January 20, 2022)— The Great Neck Water Pollution Control District (GNWPCD) is pleased to announce that Commissioner Steve Reiter was reelected to the Board of Commissioners following the District’s December 14 election. Reiter was recently sworn into office to begin his fourth term and looks to spend the next three years adding to his already impressive tenure with the District.

“Serving the Great Neck community these past nine years has been one of the great privileges of my life, and I am grateful to my neighbors for affording me the opportunity to continue my work here at the GNWPCD,” said Commissioner Reiter. “Our work never stops here at the District and being a part of each and every project is something of which I am extremely proud. I am tremendously thankful for the community having put their faith in me once again.”

The work done by the District over the last three years has involved some of the most groundbreaking accomplishments made in its history, due in large part to Reiter’s leadership. Since 2019, the District has finished work on a third microturbine, updated three anaerobic digesters and completed its Grease Receiving Station, which is the first and only one in Nassau County. Thanks to the District’s ability to secure over $12 million in grant funding, Reiter and the other commissioners made sure that these projects came at no additional cost to the taxpayer.

Reiter’s commitment to his community does not stop at the District’s current operations, as he is constantly looking to find ways to help more and more residents of the Great Neck Peninsula. Last year, during which time Reiter served as the Board Chairman, the District acquired a $150,000 grant from the County to study the feasibility of connecting the unsewered portions of the Village of Great Neck Estates and Harbor Hills to its sewer collection system.
